Message from the Mayor

By Cr. Patrick J. Lynch, J.P.,
Mayor of Altona

The Mayoress and I have pleasure in addressing this message to the readers of the Star.

It is our wish that the coming season will be one of happiness and satisfaction to all.

May the joy of Christmas be manifest at all times, and particularly do we appeal for a happy and healthful holiday season.

It is also our wish the 1972 will be one in which everyone in the community will give 100 per cent. consideration to due protection of the environment.

Not only do we trust that co-operation will be given by all to ensure that roads are free from accidents, but that industries will take care in the manufacturing processes, so as not to affect the neighboring area by the emission of unnecessary noise, smoke, odors, or anything which is likely to be of continuing annoyance.

A happy, holy and peaceful Christmas time to you all. May the new year bring all that you yourselves would wish.

day, January 2; Monday,

son begins on December

Werribee in areas under the control of the Country Fire Authority.

SCHOOL SITE: BID FOR SPACE

Altona Council is to ask the Education Department to acquire additional land for the development of the new Altona East High School.

*The present school site is 15 acres —
the standard size for all new high schools.*

The council feels, however, this standard was set many years ago and these days a larger site is required if a high school is to be developed properly.

The school site, in Blenheim Road, was bought from the State Electricity Commission, which owns about 100 acres in the area.

The SEC land at present is used for storing bri-quettes.

The council will ask the Education Department to buy up to five acres more.

The new high school is scheduled to open for first term next year.

Four classrooms are planned to be built by February for the form one intake.

Altona Town Clerk, Mr.
J. W. Waters, said "modern day experience shows that the average school yard is not big enough.

YEARS AGO

"The 15 acre standard was set years ago.

"These days we can provide better assembly halls, libraries, canteens and other facilities, as well as playing fields.

"And we are reaching the day when every teacher owns a car, so we need increased parking space.

"The idea is to get the extra land now, so the school has the potential for full development.

"Also, there is nothing wrong with having additional open space.

"The council could utilise the area for weekend sporting activities."

DIFFICULTY

The principal of Altona
North High School, Mr. R.
Roberts, said, "we have had and are still having difficulty developing our 15 acres site.

"This is due to lack of finance and poor parent participation.

"As a result, very little has been done over the past 10 years, although we have built our own assembly hall.

"But if you were thinking in terms of further development, such as a primary school and perhaps a teachers' college on the same site, more than 15 acres would be necessary."

Car parts stolen

Thieves have broken into the Esso service station, on the corner of Maidstone St., and Simmons Drive and stole $180 worth of fan belts, four batteries valued at $53 and a number of seat belts and car aerials.

The theft was reported to Altona Police next morning by garage proprietor, Mr. Nick Athan-sou, of Somers Pde.

Mr. Athansou told police the theft occurred between 8.45 p.m. on Wednesday and 7 a.m., on Thursday.

He said the thieves had smashed panes of glass at the bottom of the front doors to gain access to the items stolen.

The tree of her dreams

Ellen Rayner, 7, beams at the family's Christmas tree as she adds the finishing touches. Ellen, of Civic Parade, Altona could hardly wait to see the tree in all its glittering splendor, so she came home from school to get a sneak preview.

Play centres

The National Fitness Council of Victoria will conduct holiday play centres in Altona and Altona North from January 4 to January 21.

Arrangements have been made for the Fitness Council to conduct the centres at Altona Youth Centre, Civic Parade, and at the Altona North Youth Centre.

Supervisor of the Altona
Youth Club centre will be Mr. Lindsay Gore, of Acacia Avenue, Seaholme, and at Altona North the supervisor will be Mr.
Peter Johnson, of Moffatt
Crescent, Werribee.

The centres will operate from 9.15 a.m. to 3.30 p.m.
five days a week.
Altona Town Clerk, Mr.
J. W. Waters, said posters had been distributed to all schools and a number of leaflets had been distributed to children.

EDITORIAL

The true meaning

As each year passes, more and more children receive and give their gifts without knowing where or how the tradition of Christmas began.

To them, unfortunately, the story of the Wise Men taking their gifts to the infant Jesus means absolutely nothing.

And, also unfortunately, the number of adults who doubt or completely disbelieve the shadowed traditions of Christmas, grow.

This is not unexpected in an age where the virgin birth seems impossible, where the existence of a god as a vapor in the desert is questioned, even by clergymen in some cases.

But to many — most of the older generations; the younger people brought up in the atmosphere of the Christian church and, above all, those in sorrow — God is far from a vapor.

It is a tradition they turn to in times of trouble and seek and receive great comfort.

Those who doubt, or completely disbelieve the background of the Christian faith must agree, however, with the important part of that faith.

This is that the set of rules laid down by the Christian faith serve as a wonderful guideline for behavior.

That if obeyed by all would make the world a far better place to live in.

Everyone connected with the Altona Star wishes the correspondents, advertisers and, above all, readers, a happy and Christian Christmas.

Another flat raided

Thieves who visited the flat of Mr. Jack Vassiliou in Sargood Street, recently stole: $145 in cash, a dress valued at $194, a $34 jersey and a bolero and skirt valued at $65.

In all, at least $416 worth of money and garments was stolen. The property was insured and the money was taken from three separate tins in the flat.

The articles stolen were taken from all parts of the flat and it appeared that the offenders were in the flat for some time. No signs of entry was evident and it was suspected that entry was gained with a key.

Swim hopes dashed in car crash

A car accident has dashed an Altona boy's hopes of entering the Victorian junior swimming championships, in February.

Jamie Trickey, 11, of Merton Grove, Altona, had his leg broken a little over 12 hours after smashing a Victorian swimming record.

Jamie and his three mates, Stephen Douglas, 11, of Rose Street, Wayne Sweetney, 11, of Queen Street and David Leroy, 10, of Grieve Parade, broke the Victorian record for the four by 50 metres relay.

They were taking part in the South Western Primary Schools' Swimming Championships, representing Altona Primary School.

The championships are sponsored annually by local businessman, Mr. Harry Butler.

The boys' success meant that the school came away with the championship.

And in eight months the boys have reduced the Victorian record by an amazing 16 seconds from two mins. 43 secs, a record set in 1966 to two minutes 27.7 secs.

Their coach, Mr. Leon Sweeney doubts that the new record will ever be broken.

And he says that Jamie's place in the Victorian finals seemed assured.

Now Jamie will be unable to take part in competitive swimming for 12 months.

By this time he will be in the next age group with tougher and stronger opponents to compete against.

It will be six months before he can go in the water and a further six before he reaches his swimming peak.

As a consolation, representatives of the school, Mr. Butler, Mr. Sweeney and his relay team members (pictured) visited Jamie at the Footscray and District hospital where he is a patient.

It had been decided to bring forward the presentation of the cups and medals to the boys on their success and these were made at the hospital by Mr. Butler.

During recent months, the Altona Apex Club has written to many local organisations in an attempt to establish a more "in depth programme of service to the community" for the 1971-72 Apex year.

A number of replies were required, one of which related to a past project. "The Altona Girl Guides Hall."

Altona Apex were requested to supply labor to assist. The girls parents to paint the exterior of the hall in Civic Parade.

Altona Apex Club's earlier association with the guide hall was at a time when they assisted. To build the hall.

The year 1971 was an exciting one for Epsilon Chapter, of Beta Sigma, Altona.

Activities began later than usual due to the fact that four members were expecting babies in February and it was decided to start the year in April.

Earlier it had been announced that president Pauline Baker and vice-president Sheila Hartley would be accompanying their husbands on overseas assignments to the States.

This meant a quick reshuffle of the executive committee and Gwladys Winfield took over as acting president until Pauline's return in September.

During the year many interesting programmes were presented including poetry and short story writing, visits to the theatre and to the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra being some of the highlights.

Scripture and the dance were also covered in the programmes and a debate.

Perhaps the most exciting and rewarding event during the year was the pledging of eight new members bringing the membership up to full strength.

On the social side, a games night and family car trial and picnic were the very popular events.

The car trial was won by Mr. and Mrs. Byrne of Xi Mu Chapter.

Epsilon had the opportunity during the year of participating in the Altona Arts Festival in April, and members were rostered to look after the Esso Arts Collection in the civic offices and council chamber for the two weeks of the festival as a community contribution.

Although Beta Sigma

Phi is not a charity organisation, surplus funds and funds raised throughout the year are voted to a particular charity and this year Epsilon Chapter presented a cheque for $150 to Altona Hospital.

This was a unanimous vote to support this particular cause as since the initiation of Epsilon Chapter 14 babies were born to past and present members over half of whom were born at the Altona Hospital.

Mrs. Wendy Hick chapter treasurer presented the cheque on behalf of Epsilon Chapter.

Towards the end of the year we were pleased to welcome back Mrs. Pauline Baker, chapter president, who had spent over six months in the United States and she was able to give a most interesting and informative talk to members about life in the States and in particular Beta Sigma Phi itself, which was founded in America.

Pauline had the opportunity to visit several chapters and was a welcome guest at many of their meetings and functions.

Pauline found that the Americans were most interested in Australia but knew very little about it.

The year closed with the installation of officers for 1972 and Mrs. Pauline Baker once again accepted the office of president, with Mrs. Joan Sweeney as vice-president.

Two 12-year-old Altona schoolboys saved a black labrador dog from drowning last Tuesday afternoon.

Patrick Borg and Stuart Kaye are grade 6c pupils at Altona West Primary School.

On Friday afternoon 30 pupils — including Patrick and Stuart — were on an outing to Magazine Pier.

One of the pupils spotted the dog floundering in the water.

Without hesitation the two boys whipped off their shirts and jumped into the water, which was waist deep.

They hauled the drowning dog out of the water and after making sure that it was fully recovered the boys took the dog to the beach and rejoined their school mates.

Bike stolen

A boy's standard, gold and blue, Pavemaster cycle was stolen from the cycle rack at Altona West Primary School recently.

The cycle which was not chained up, belonged to Douglas Williams of Elm Crt.

Altona Police are investigating.

New Rambler Matador

A new name on Australian roads — Rambler Matador — means new heights in super-luxury motoring wrapped in a long, clean-lined body that quietly spells the word prestige from every angle. Spacious deluxe accommodation is provided for six passengers in its sumptuous interior.

The Matador's distinctive lines are further enhanced by full-length body mouldings, new front bumpers and grille and the discreet treatment of the tail light clusters.

Under the skin lies the famous 360 cubic inch V8 engine with two-barrel carburettor, developing 245 brake horse power at an easy 4400 revolutions per minute.

This smooth power unit is coupled to a Borg-Warner automatic gear box, which has a steering column selector and quadrant; the drive to the rear wheels is via a limited-slip differential which, like all the other items, is a standard fitting.

Heavy duty coil springs and shock absorbers are fitted to both front and rear suspension. At the front there is an anti-roll bar and the rear wheels are kept firmly under control by four trailing links.

Coupled with the increased wheelbase, this suspension gives passengers the flat, jolt-free ride that only a big, solidly built sedan can provide.

NEW YEAR RESOLUTIONS

Although making New Year resolutions is usually a summer vacation pastime of the very young, may I suggest that all caravanners regardless of their age or experience could well give a little of their leisure holiday period to taking stock of their touring tactics and resolving where and how these can be improved.

In America where "trailerers" as they call it has been the nationally popular past-time for decades and most "trailerists" belong to active clubs and associations, they have formulated codes of ethics for caravanners which vary slightly from one club or organisation to another, but all of which make tremendous sense to the caravan owner and his fellow traveller.

There is a tremendous camaraderie among caravanners. I know of no other group of people which encompasses so many human beings of such widely different occupations, ages, religious or political beliefs, nationality or income, where they will all get together as total strangers and immediately chat like lifelong friends.

Caravanning is a way of life that appeals to all friendly folk who are interested in the general process of living life to the full. It follows in the main therefore that caravanners care about their fellow men.

It is because the American trailerists care about their fellow men that they have evolved these codes of ethics and I feel we could well emulate their example by formulating a few New Year resolutions of our own until our clubs and associations form their own codes.

PREPARING

First, let us consider sensible preparations for any caravanning trip. Not just from our point of view but from every angle.

Resolve to make sure you are adequately covered insurance wise to protect others and yourself in case of any accident.

Resolve to take your caravan in for a safety check in the same way you would the car.

If there isn't a caravan safety check centre near you (and some of the caravan repair concerns offer this service) resolve to jack the van up well in advance of the trip and thoroughly examine the chassis for cracks, the tyres for defects (they often look good until examined thoroughly), brake lines for fraying and faults, water tank for leaks and mildew, water pump lines for efficiency of operation, jacks, jockey wheel, wheel bearings and springs for deterioration and safety chains for security.

Lubrication of the van's working parts is as important as your car lube, too.

Resolve to pay special attention to the coupling, jockey shaft and wheel, parking jacks, hubs and bearings, spring shackles, step, retaining nuts and bolts, window and hatch stays when putting the lubrication into operation.

Resolve to make absolutely sure your rig complies with all the road safety and legal requirements of your State. Are your side mirrors adequate for towing?—if not, resolve to get some bigger ones, made specifically for this purpose.

TOWING

How does your van tow? If there is pitch and sway even with a properly loaded van and you know the car is powerful enough to pull a van of that particular size, resolve to have a tow aid or sway hitch fitted. Not only will you find it far easier to drive but you will be in charge of a far safer rig on the road, too — this is what I mean by considering one's fellow travellers, of course.

When on the highway resolve not to block the petrol bowlers in the service station with your outfit and remember it's bad manners to pull in and use the rest rooms only. If you need water urgently for a thirsty radiator resolve to get a larger one fitted before your next trip and ask the service station attendant if they have an outside tap at the back out of busy people's way.

Resolve that if you see traffic piling up behind you in the rear view mirror you will pull over on to the soft shoulder of the highway or into a passside halt and let them pass before continuing on your way.

Resolve not to let the family throw litter out of the car windows and be sure everyone uses the ashtray for their cigarette ash and butts.

POLLUTION

And resolve to keep within the permitted speed limits for towing caravans, too.

If you stop for a barbecue lunch somewhere, resolve that no member of your party will be allowed to pollute lakes, reservoirs or streams with bottles, cans, paper bags or any other rubbish children discard so readily. Carry a "tidy bag" and encourage everyone to put their rubbish into it for disposal in a waste or garbage can whenever possible. Leave no broken glass to cause fires and even if you want fuel for an open camp fire do no damage to trees, shrubs or bushes, for green wood is not good for outdoor cooking anyway. It's the dried out fallen branches that make the best camp fires.

Resolve always to leave your camp site even cleaner than you found it.

If you arrive at the tourist park late at night when the proprietor is enjoying a well-earned rest, resolve to find an unused site and park quietly and without fuss. You can always pay your dues the following morning and change sites then if necessary.

Resolve that, no matter how many people there are in your party, you'll cut back the noise after 10 p.m.

Most of us get up fairly early on holiday and enjoy long, full days.

Loud laughter, transistor radios, car horn farewells and teenage horseplay outside are very annoying to those who have gone to bed early, though subdued camp fire singing, especially of Christmas carols, can be quite enjoyable if the voices are pleasantly in tune.

Resolve that if you have an evening car trip, returning to the park late at night, you will not dazzle sleepers with your headlights — your parking lights should be sufficient in a well-lit park and resolve not to slam those car doors.

Even in a friendly park, as all the good ones are, you can still respect the next family's privacy.

OTHERS

Resolve not to use their site as a short cut to the laundry just as they are sitting down to lunch under the awning. Resolve to give the children firm instructions about using pathways not flower beds and never throwing stones, shouting or in any other way annoying fellow guests.

If you have taken the family pet along resolve to keep it on a leash and well exercised at all times, for the sake of the pet and those around you.

Whilst everyone enjoys a refreshing shower resolve not to monopolise the cubicle and all the hot water whilst an impatient queue forms, won't you.

Where there is a septic system installed only the approved toilet paper may be used and positively nothing else whatever. Resolve therefore not to use the toilet pan as an ashtray or similar rubbish disposal tip.

If you do put a plastic bag, disposable napkin or other foreign matter into a septic toilet the whole park system will immediately be thrown into disorder to everyone's inconvenience and the park operator's extreme expense.

Resolve to leave the shower, hand basin and toilet as clean as you hope to find them — this is the hallmark of a good caravanner.

Have the children clear the site twice daily of any accumulated bottle tops, empty cigarette cartons, &c. They will

TRIBUTES POUR IN FOR TEACHER

Tributes and good wishes have been pouring in over the past few weeks for Mr. G. H. L. Treyvaud, retiring principal of Altona Primary School.

And at a dinner of recognition held for Mr. Treyvaud recently, a special illustrated booklet tracing his career and including many of the compliments was presented to him.

The booklet was prepared by three of Altona Primary's teachers. It features a sketch of Mr. Treyvaud on the front cover, done by Melbourne cartoonist Weg.

Inside are pictures of Mr. Treyvaud taken at various stages of his career, and a wedding day picture of him with his wife "Bet".

The teachers who put together the booklet were grade five teachers, Mr. A.

Robinson and Mr. Graeme Murdoch, and remedial teacher Mr. Ray Ross.

Here are extracts from two of the official letters of compliments printed in the booklet.

From the Williamstown Rotary Club: Very few Rotarians have served so well and achieved such popularity throughout the years.

"For all who have contact with 'Peter' it goes without saying that any work connected with Rotary receives a full and enthusiastic treatment and can always be used as an example by other members."

COUNCIL

From the Altona Council:

"He is a man who has successfully dedicated his career to guiding lives of his students to enable them to equip themselves to become the citizens of today."

The booklet also includes the answer to a question which must have puzzled many people throughout the years: Mr. Treyvaud's first names are George Henry Lyle, so why does everybody call him Peter?

The story is that in 1927, Mr. Treyvaud dutifully attended a meeting of the Kerang East football club because, he had been informed "the teacher" was always made secretary of the club.

Not wishing to tread upon the toes of a long-established country tradition, Mr. Treyvaud accepted the nomination.

But, being new to the town he could not bring himself to let the rough and ready footy club members know that he was known as Lyle.

So he chose Peter as being a suitably modest name — and it has stuck ever since.

SORRY

This week, Mr. Treyvaud told the Star he was sorry to be leaving the life of a teacher.

"At the moment I don't think retiring will be too bad," he said.

"But I don't think I will end up liking it. When you get to my age it's time to get out."

He said he had not yet made up his mind what he will do in his new-found life of freedom.

"I may get a part-time job to keep me out of mischief. I'm a bit sorry I haven't got a hobby to keep me interested."

"But I will keep up my interest in education... and of course — I shall always read."

Mr. Treyvaud also had a few compliments of his own to pay — to teachers, parents and children.

He said that "99 per cent." of all the teachers he had ever had under his command had been excellent, and that without the "wonderful" parent co-operation he had always received as headmaster he would not have been able to do as good a job.

MATURE

And the pupils? "Pupils today are infinitely more mature than ever before," he said.

"They know so much more and they question so much more. In fact, the modern education methods don't provide for telling kids, but letting them find out... and make their own mistakes in doing so, too."

And what does wife think of his retiring?

"Well, she'll see a bit more of me — but I don't know whether that will be a good or a bad thing."

These three sets of twins get along happily — the only game they don't play is hide and seek. Because how can you tell if you find the right twin? The boys are (back row, from left) Cameron and Phillip Hird of Spotswood, (front left), David and Andrew Meurer of Maidstone, with Michael and Wayne Comber of Footscray.

In your time — — A GUIDE TO LEISURE

By PETER VAUGHAN

With the Christmas holidays approaching many people will be looking forward to spending some of the time catching up on their reading and because of this they will be browsing around looking for interesting material.

The following books should fulfil their demands as well as providing much to think over.

Kenneth Cook's Wake in Fright, now a film, is a terrifying book which exposes the myth of the 'wonderful' Australian outback.

John Grant, a young school teacher just finishing a year in a desolate town, loses all his pay in a two-up game at Bundanyabba while on the way to Sydney.

Stranded in the town he sinks further and further into the morass of drink, degradation and loneliness until finally he attempts suicide.

Cook's portrayal of the barrenness and desolation of Inland Australia and its inhabitants make this book one that should be read by all people who still believe in the great outback myth.

Ray Bradbury has always been a popular writer of science fiction and possibly his best work is Fahrenheit 451. This book set in the American future is a frightening look at the extension of today's audio-visual world.

All communication is presented through audio-visual media, mini transistors and maxi-size TV screens, while books are banned completely because they only 'confuse' people and make them think.

To effectively eradicate books the State employs firemen who no longer put out fires (all houses are fire-proof) but in actual fact light them wherever books are found.

Hence the title, for Fahrenheit 451 is the temperature at which book-paper burns.

This nightmare of the quite possible future is seen through the eyes of a fireman who suddenly finds that he can no longer accept this life and in so doing creates a situation of conflict which has a chilling climax.

Erich Von Daniken's Chariots of the Gods? puts forward the proposition that there is life out in space and that this life visited Earth ages ago in spaceships which primitive man regarded as gods.

To prove this he makes a number of assumptions — and stretches facts to the limits of their plausibility but nevertheless his controversial contention does raise the nagging question of what if he's right and for this reason alone the book is well worth reading.

SUMMARY: Kenneth Cook Wake in Fright, Penguin $1.00. Ray Bradbury Fahrenheit 451 Corgi $0.65. Erich Von Daniken Chariots of the Gods? Corgi $1.25.

There was no need to be alarmed about the employment situation for school leavers, a spokesman for the Department of Labor and National Service told the Star this week.

He said there were 3821 unfilled vacancies for males and 5503 vacancies for females at the end of November.

But, he added, "the number of students leaving school this year is higher than it was last year and young people should register for work at their local employment office as soon as possible in order to get a suitable position."

The district employment office is in 80 Napier Street, Newport.

If no suitable position is found within a week, it is in the applicant's interest that he applies for unemployment benefits.

Only those who have left school permanently are eligible.

The spokesman added that, while every effort was made to place school leavers into jobs, many employers had not yet decided the number of applicants they are going to hire in the new year.

They were married at the Holy Trinity Church in Williamstown, with the Rev. E. Withington officiating.

The bridegroom is an instructor with the Williamstown sea cadets. Bridesmaids were Jill Sewell, Carole Robertson (bride's sister), Trudy Walton (groom's sister) and Patricia Jones.

Robert Kent, Rod Pugh and Nick Kaseprovic accompanied the groom.

Railways geared for Christmas

Victorian Railways are well geared to cater for the anticipated Christmas vacation exodus from Melbourne to country and interstate destinations.

The Victorian Railways Commissioners have announced that extra trains have been arranged for the rush period and there would also be some alterations to normal timetables.

Additional trains would run to Sydney and Adelaide and many Victorian country towns particularly on Christmas Eve.

Bookings were heavy, and intending passengers were advised to make early reservations.

Full details of normal, additional and altered train time-tables are available at all railway stations, the Victorian Government Tourist Bureau and the Transport Information Centre, 272 Collins Street, phone 63 0202.
